

REFOOT SCENE OF TROUBLE.

Tennessee Feud Breaks Out Anew and One Man Killed.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 23.—An Obion, Tenn., dispatch says: On ground made famous by the Reelfoot lake night rider troubles, James Keesucker shot and killed one man late Saturday afternoon and wounded his brother and a woman in Shaw's park in Obion county. The dead:

MARTIN LEONARD.
The wounded:
MRS. PITTS.
WILL KEESUCKER.

James Keesucker made his escape. Shaw's park is an open space of ground on Reelfoot lake about a quarter of a mile from Shamburg, Tenn., a town of about 50 people. During the night rider troubles Shamburg was said to be the hotbed of the organization.

A party of people was in the park about 5 o'clock in the afternoon when James Keesucker drew a revolver and shot Martin Leonard. The latter dropped dead in his tracks and Keesucker turned his weapon on Mrs. Pitts and his brother, Will Keesucker.

There had long been bad feeling between the Keesuckers and Leonard.

A farce at League park yesterday afternoon in which a fight was pulled off, players were benched and fined and rotten decisions were given by the umpire, resulted in the Indians losing the final game to Hopkinsville by being whitewashed 6 to 0.

The Warriors were not on their best behavior and Umpire Riser's nose was bloodied in the first part of the third inning of the comedy. Anderson, short stop for the Indians, was accused of dealing the blow and was ordered off the field and fined $5. Angermeyer received similar treatment for cursing Riser. Overton was sent to left garden in Angermeyer's place, Floyd succeeded Cox in right and Cox succeeded Anderson at short for the remainder of the game. Goldnamer, left fielder for the Lunatics was benched in the eighth for poking fun at Riser's decisions in pronouncing him out at the plate and Crain held down left garden for the visitors during the ninth.

The whole trouble started when Overton ran into Tipton's Paducah's new third baseman, in the third and couldn't gather himself together in time to make it home. Overton had singled and made it to second when Kyle, first baseman for the Indians dropped the ball. Demarre was called out on strikes. Goldnamer got to first on an error when the ball, which was popped high between first and second, descended on the ground, both Kyle and Varnadore hesitating which should receive it. Vinson lined out to center and Overton ran for third when he fell. Goldnamer went past second and when he arrived at third Overton was just getting to his feet and by this time Anderson had received the ball thrown from center by Payne. Anderson caught Goldnamer between second and third sacks and during an argument he touched Overton with the ball near home. Riser pronounced Overton safe and Anderson's wrath was aroused. The beefing began and before Taylor got to the bat for the Lunatics the umpire was attacked by Runyan, it is said. The umpire hurled his mask and breast shield at someone, but missed several feet. Anderson and Angermeyer were then benched and when their positions were filled the game continued, the Indians failing to make anything but rings.

Hoptown sent three men home in the seventh.
It happened like this: Lyon singled through short, Murray sacrificed, Runyan to Kyle. Blue singled to short scoring Lyons and Murray, when Payne fumbled the ball that got to Cox. Overton got a single by lining the ball over Tipton's scalp. Demarre popped to Kyle. Goldnamer singled to center, scoring Blue on Payne's fumble. Goldnamer stole second. Vinson hoisted to Payne.

In the ninth the Night Riders sent one more man in home. Blue singled and beat it to third sack when Cox muffed a throw from Block at second. Overton strolled and stole second while Block tried to catch Blue off third. Demarre fanned. Goldnamer sacrificed and got to first on Runyan's error. Runyan in attempting to prevent Blue from scoring fell while running to Block and made a wild throw. Blue scoring. While Vinson was going out Runyan to Kyle Overton crossed the plate and was put out of the game when he laughed at Riser calling him out.

STREET WAIF WILL BECOME THE GOVERNOR OF TENNESSEE

B. W. Hooper, Republican and Independent Candidate,
Was Reared in Orphanage

Newport, Tenn., Aug. 23.—Coke county is still congratulating itself over the nomination of a favorite, Capt. B. W. Hooper, for governor, by the Republican convention.

From a street waif to the governor's chair (for Captain Hooper's election seems assured) before he is 40 years old, is a conspicuous example of what grit, perseverance and sterling manhood can accomplish. In years to come the children of Tennessee will be told the story of a great city, who by dint of industry and the proper use of the powers which God gave him, reached the gubernatorial chair of Tennessee.

The nominee was born in Newport, Tenn., October 13, 1870. He drifted to Knoxville where he was picked up on the streets when about 6 or 7 years old, and was placed in St. John's orphanage. At the age of 9 years he was taken from that institution and adopted by Dr. L. W. Hooper, of Newport. His education was begun in the public school of his native town. In his sixteenth year he entered Carson & Newman college, where he graduated with first honors. He began the study of law in the office of H. N. Cate, of Newport, and, before being admitted to the bar he decided that he wanted to go to the legislature, and when he made his race he was not of age, but his fighting qualities were here shown, and his first victory over a political machine was recorded, and for two terms he served his district in the lower house, although the youngest man in that body, he was the recognized leader of his party.

After two terms, he returned to the active practice of law, but the call to arms in the Spanish-American war found a ready response from him, and he was commissioned a captain in the Sixth Volunteer Infantry, seeing service in Porto Rico.

His Wealth.
Although favored with a good practice, these interruptions prevented Captain Hooper from accumulating much of this world's goods. Shortly after his return from the war he made a trip west. He saw the possibilities of Oklahoma, and a piece of property attracted him. He had not the $20,000 to make the purchase, so he returned home and borrowed a fourth of the sum, and, with some friends, his first investment was made. This property was retained eight years, and was sold for ten times its cost. Profiting by his keen business judgment, he accumulated a comfortable fortune, owning real estate propositions at Birmingham, Ala., and Houston, Tex., which promises to further increase his fortune. It is commonly remarked by his friends that his first investment was nerve. The nominee recently resigned as assistant United States district attorney, he has been a prominent figure in east Tennessee for years, but has kept in the background himself, always pushing his friends to the front. His name has frequently been mentioned as congressional timber.

Married in 1901.
The people of his native town are proud of him. He was married, in 1901, to Miss Anna B. Jones, a member of one of east Tennessee's most prominent families, and three bright-eyed little children have blessed this union. He has been the life of the municipality in which he lives. His support has always been given to plans of civic development, and when municipal problems became perplexing his is the advice sought by the bewildered citizens. When, after a long, bitter fight, he induced his fellow-citizens to issue several hundred thousand dollars in bonds for the purpose of macadamizing the roads of the county, these people demonstrated their confidence in his integrity and ability by making him the treasurer of the fund. Captain Hooper is gifted with personal magnetism. He is an attractive man, and has a keen sense of humor. He is an orator of no mean ability, possessing a magnetic voice, and he can clothe convincing logic in words that appeal to the humblest. A brilliant opportunity has come to this man who began his life under such trying circumstances. This opportunity finds him ready prepared and able to assume the responsibilities and honors of the distinguished position offered him.

Fight for Nomination.
When Tennessee Republicans were recently confronted with the problem of finding a man to lead the fight against machine rule, it was necessary to find a man with a clean record—a man who was a fighter and a man who would appeal to the independent Democrats of the Volunteer state. The Republicans met for a convention, with a great host of aspirants pressing their claims for the honor. Two days before the nomination was made, a young man from the far end of the state appeared on the scene and firmly announced that he was a candidate for the nomination. Outside of his own division of the state, this man was practically unknown. He was the dark horse of the hour. This man was Captain Hooper.

The appearance of this young man upon the scene upset the plans of the leaders. An effort was made to have him withdraw in favor of one of the better known candidates, but he refused to back down, and he told the leaders that his strongest point was in the fact that he was not so well known as some of the men in the race. This determination to fight his battle on the floor of the convention alarmed the leaders, and a few hours before the convention met it was seen that the "dark horse" had the solid support of the organization in command of the situation, and his nomination was assured.

Independent Headquarters.
Nashville, Aug. 23.—The independent Democrats have reopened their headquarters at the Maxwell House, occupying the same rooms they used during the recent judicial campaign. The rooms are located on the third floor of the Maxwell. Secretary T. B. Johnson, of the state committee, is in charge and will remain so until the return to the city of Maj. W. O. Vertrees, who is now in Florida on business. It was at first thought the committee would reserve rooms in the Stahlman buildings, but it was finally decided to return to the Maxwell and headquarters were opened there. An active campaign is to be carried on throughout the state by the independent Democrats in support of the fusion state ticket and it is probable several of the ablest Democratic speakers will take the stump within the next few weeks. By early in September the campaign will be on in earnest.

State Chairman Newell Sanders, of the Republican executive committee, has not yet called a meeting of his committee to take steps for beginning their gubernatorial campaign, but it is expected such a meeting will be called within the next week or ten days. In the meantime the Republicans are not idle but are making their preliminary preparations for one of the most aggressive campaigns ever conducted in Tennessee.

With the administration Democrats preliminary campaign work has commenced about headquarters which are located on the second floor at the Maxwell House. As announced in the Banner some days ago, Governor Patterson will not take the stump before September 5 or 10. The administrationists, too, will conduct a very active campaign throughout the state.

Much mail has been received at the independent Democratic headquarters indicating encouraging conditions throughout the state for the fusion ticket for governor and railroad commissioner from West Tennessee. The Republicans and independent Democrats feel confident the majority for the independent Judiciary ticket August 4 will be fully maintained in the November election. The administrationists, however, claim that conditions are favorable for them and that when Governor Patterson goes on the stump and makes a direct appeal to Democrats to stand by the "regular" Democratic nominee, they will rally to the old flag as in years past.

Cows That Never Drink.
The "wild cow" of Arabia, in reality an antelope the Bactrian ox, is said never to drink, which is probably correct, for unless these animals can descend the wells they can find no drinking water for ten months in the year. There is no surface water, and rain falls but precariously during the winter. Only once during my journey did I find a pool of rain-water, caught in a hollow rock, and even this I should have passed by, without knowing of its existence, had not my camel sniffed it from a distance and obstinately refused to be turned from going in that direction. These antelopes, however, are provided by nature with a curious food supply, especially designed as a thirst-quencher. This is a parasite which grows on the roots of the desert bushes and forms a long spadix full of water and juice. The antelope dig deep holes in the sand in order to get at these.—September Wide World Magazine.

for a year or more, telling you that you ought to know all about the company that carries your fire insurance, but have you done anything about it? Many have, but the majority of policy-holders have done nothing about the selection of a company. They are still "fiddling."

In the history of fire insurance in America, a large majority of the fire insurance companies organized have failed or retired from business. To be insured in companies like Wells, that have been in business a hundred years and will be in business a hundred years from now, costs no more than to be insured in one that may go out of business next week.
